

The report was written by the student, and the student made sure that it was completed on time. The document was reviewed by the teacher before being finalized. The student felt that the document was good, but the teacher suggested changes. These changes were implemented, and the report was submitted by the student.